Year 8 design and innovate!

Yesterday, our Year 8 students travelled to the Baltic Quarter in Gateshead. Working in both Proto, the Centre for Digital Innovation, which is the first of its kind in Europe, and the Northern Design Centre, students were introduced to the world of augmented and virtual reality. They were set the challenge of developing new innovations to solve real-life problems faced by the NHS. Over the next four weeks students will be working in Technology and Computing to present a solution to their problem, before showcasing their ideas to industry experts on 11 July.

The timeless relevance of Austen: a truth universally acknowledged

Year 12 Literature students braved the yellow weather warning to journey down to Derbyshire for an 'Introduction to Austen' study day at Chatsworth House. The rain did not dampen their spirits as they enjoyed a series of lectures and an interactive, Pride and Prejudice-inspired tour around Chatsworth's breathtaking grounds. Delivered by leading English Literature academics from Sheffield University, students relished the opportunity to engage in discussions about key literary contexts, genres and themes over the course of the day. They left feeling suitably inspired and informed.

Judo pros compete at World Championships

Three world-class judo practitioners from College will be heading to Bratislava next week to compete in the WUKF World Karate Championships. Sophie Watt and John Gough (both Year 10) and Rowan Reeve (Year 12) are proud to have been selected to represent their country and have been training extra hard in preparation. They will be joined by alumnus Steven Jaremko who, like John and Rowan, won a medal at the JKS Worlds back in 2016. We wish them every success, and hope they return with some silverware!

Business Forum Panel

What do Improvement Architecture, IA Growth, Master Debonair, Funky Chunky Furniture and Surge have in common? Answer: a member of the Senior Management Team from each firm participated in the College's inaugural business panel forum. Economists assembled in the lecture theatre to discuss economics, politics and education. It was fascinating to learn first-hand what employers look for in an employee, and also to hear about the perceived shortage of skills and ambition in North East England. There was no shortage of ambition in the lecture theatre; indeed, Andy Briggs, Financial Director IA Growth, later remarked that "the future is in safe hands!" Many thanks to Graham Sleep, CEO Improvement Architecture, for co-ordinating the day and organising such an impressive line-up of panellists.
